Xiqing Country Park, located at the southwest of downtown area, is the largest wetland parks in Tianjin, as well as an important and organic part of Tianjin Ecological Corridor. After the construction of metro line 5, Xiqing Country Park will become a popular destination for local residents to be close to nature and enjoy their leisure time. Our design makes full use of ecological technologies and adjusts measures to local conditions, aiming to make Xiqing an ecological lung for the city. Meanwhile, based on the development demands of ecological agriculture, combining with brand and IP structure, we strive to establish a model of ecological restoration and ecological agriculture.
