Qihoo 360 Headquarter, located at Huayuan Science and Technology Park in Tianjin High-tech Zone, is a new growth pole of regional economy, science and technology in the future. Our planning and design based on people-oriented concept creates a unique, green and efficient atmosphere to meet the requirements of research and office. As a project representative of High-tech Zone, its dynamic space, green loop and creative space, provides a new and sustainable space prototype for future cities. The green island successfully meet functional requirements of the building for high floor height and large space without columns. Meanwhile, the hills combines with outside landscape to create open space with different open level and squares with various cultural themes.
